

DICKINSON SCHOOL SHOWS INCREASE

DICKINSON — Enrollment in the Dickinson School District has increased 2,807 to 2,901 since the opening of school, it was reported at the school board meeting held Monday night. This is an increase of 285 over the same reporting period last year.

The board passed a motion to retain its present system of electing trustees — at large instead of by positions.

In at-large elections, all candidates run for the open positions and the top vote getters are the winners.

Under the alternate method, the top candidate for numbered positions on boards would be the winner.
