Principal's Message

Delivery of the yearbooks in our school comes near the end of the year when it is the right time to look back at the way things have gone.

You will probably do just that as you turn through the book and review the events and achievements of the year. It is my sincere hope that you will find satisfaction and pride in recalling the activities in which you took part—playing in the band, being on an athletic team, appearing in assemblies, or perhaps representing your school in one of the student organizations.

But it is also my hope that in your review of the school year you will not stop with the student activities and special events, for there should be an equal satisfaction and pride in remembering your academic achievements in the classroom. It is this side of the school year that has really held the greatest value for you in the search for your life's goals.

Education has been called a "valuable possession" and it may well prove to be the most prized possession that will come to you in your life. It is possible to live life on many academic levels, but from a multitude of evidence including the beliefs of the world's greatest thinkers, we have reason to feel that the educated way of life has more value than others.

Much of what a student learns can be translated into terms of earning power later in life, but aside from this value of education it is important to know for the sake of knowledge and the pleasure it brings. There is value in knowing and in coming to grips with truth and reality.

So therefore it is hoped that you will prize the knowledge you acquire in school, that it will tend to steady your judgements, to touch your decisions in life with wisdom and to be a perennial source of strength and satisfaction.
